1 Have you clocked the period timepieces dotted round the walls at Raoul Hugon's wood cabin in the mountains (page 100)? Antiques like these can be unreliable, so why not try Roger Lascelles, whose new wooden clocks are inspired by period dial designs. These examples cost £55 each. Ring 020 8298 8866, or visit rogerlascelles.com.

2 Like Hague's sculptures on fire (page 104), a wood-burner costs $4,500 approx. Ring 001 517 278 2214, or visit antiquestoves.com.

4 Re-create the Rodriguez-Acosta garden (page 160) with a pergola from Haddonstone. Columns cost from £500 each. Ring 01604 770711, or visit haddonstone.com. Try Practicality Brown for instant hedges, starting at £140 per m. Ring 01753 652022, or visit pracbrown.co.uk. Finally, visit Charleston for a Classical torso made from a composite cement blend. Costing £215, it can also be employed as a planter. Ring 01323 811626, or visit charleston.org.uk.

5 Yolked to the idea of owning an egg collection like Michel Biehn's (page 214)? It's illegal to take bird's eggs from the wild in Britain, but Snowdonia Taxidermy Supplies has an alternative. Its hand-painted plaster reproductions of over 280 species cost from £3.40 each.

Ring 01492 640664, or visit snowdoniasupplies.co.uk. For antique French textiles try Katharine Pole. This 18th-century block-printed cotton-and-linen pelmet costs £300. Ring 07747 616692, or visit katharinepole.com ■
